

“Jim was a great caller, and there were many people dancing that Saturday night who would never have guessed they were going to be doing that. I felt that the music and dancing made for a party that was very inclusive despite the major differences between our families, and indeed, within the families. Also, despite the great variety in peoples’ dancing levels, people enjoyed themselves. The dancing and the music was the proverbial icing on the cake.”
~ Elliot T.